Statement of Compliance

The Responsible Individual must prepare the statement of compliance.

CIW have published guidance on completing the quality of care review which provides advice on what could be contained within the statement of compliance.

Set out your statement of compliance in respect to the four well-being areas below.

The extent to which people feel their voices are heard, they have choice about their care and support, and opportunities are made available to them.	People who live in Rhosllyn are given a range of options to ens ure that they have their voices heard and that they are involved in making choices and having control.
	In the first instance there are regular resident meetings, these t ake place quarterly, but also they take place if there are decisio ns to be made, such as holiday destinations, changes in decor or something may have an impact on people and needs discus sion and agreement.
	Outside of the resident meetings, there are regular one to one sessions with the manager of the service, and at any point resi dents can speak to any of the members of the team or raise co ncerns as they need to.
	The residents at Rhosllyn are made aware of things that are ha ppening in the community and they are able to attend events a nd go to regular meetings locally as they wish, and transport is provided for people.
	A number of people who live at Rhosllyn are involved in local gr oups and there is regular attendance at clubs such as men in s heds.
	In addition to the resident meetings, there are regular discussio ns with the Responsible Individual, both when he attends for th e regulation visits and also informally when he visits, and any is sues or concerns can be raised.
	People have full choice over the care they receive and the staff team are trained to ask people how they want supporting and t o provide people with choices to allow them to make an informe d decision.
	Where there is family involvement, we encourage people ensur e that they discuss any concerns with family should they not fee I comfortable raising these with the staff team, the manager or t he responsible individual.
	We also conducted regular surveys so that feedback can be ga ined.
	To allow people to feel more comfortable in making decisions a nd making their voice heard, it would be helpful if the people at Rhosllyn had advocates and people who may be able to suppor t in an impartial way.

The extent to which people are happy and supported to maintain their ongoing health, development and overall wellbeing. For children, this will also include intellectual, social	People are supported to maintain health and wellbeing and the e are a number of examples of this at Rhosllyn and behavioural development.	Rhosllyn has a number of people who have recently been unw Il and who have underlying health conditions, and the way that people have been supported and how the service has adapted to this has been exceptional.
	In regards to care and support, the team have supported indiv duals who may have been unwell, they have shown empathy a d consideration and understanding and they have worked clos ly with health professionals to achieve the best outcomes.
	In addition to the changing needs of people, the service itself h as adapted be become more suitable for people who may have mobility issues, this has seen the creation of a new ground flor room, the addition of laminate flooring to make it more suitable or wheelchairs and also the addition of aids and adaptations, w hich have all ensured that people can remain in their home, w en otherwise this would not have been possible.
	Rhosllyn also promotes healthy eating and and supports peop e to make the right food choices.
	Additionally there are good links with health professionals, not ust in the case of people who have been unwell, but on a more general basis, and people have access to the services they ne ed to make sure they maintain good health and wellbeing.
The extent to which people feel safe and protected from abuse and neglect.	People in Rhosllyn are supported to report any issues in respect of abuse or neglect, and these areas are discussed regular and are highlighted at resident meetings, so that people feel of mfortable in raising any concerns.
	The manager has an open door policy and the people who live in Rhosllyn are encouraged to speak and raise any issues dire ctly with the manager.
	Of course it can be difficult for people to raise concerns with pople who they see every day, and there is clear information privided to people on how to report any issues.
	The responsible individual also provides support should anybo dy wish to raise any concerns.
	Information is also provided on the notice board and families a e made aware of how to raise any concerns, either directly with the service or with the local authority or directly with CIW
	The staff team undertake training so that they can understand how to deal with any allegations, or for them to be aware of the signs of abuse and neglect, so that they too can raise this issu e if they see any of the vital signs.
	The service is lacking the fact that people do not have an advocate who they can speak to independently

The extent to which people live in accommodation that best supports their wellbeing and achievement of their personal outcomes.	The service is well proportioned and people have access to the ir own space and also a number of communal rooms that they c an either share with others or have as a larger quiet space for t hemselves.
	The accommodation has been updated to modernise and also t o meet the needs of some of the people in the service who now have additional needs in respect of the environment.
	People were consulted on the changes to the environment, and there has been a positive reaction to this.
	There is a significant outside space that the residents use, this is a quiet space that helps with peoples mental health and wellb eing, and there is also a vegetable garden, where the home ca n produce their own produce and residents help with the activit y.
	The people in the service have access to transport to allow the m to access the community and to be involved and participate a s they wish.
	The service now has two ground floor accessible rooms, and th ere is a stairlift to access upstairs, along with a wet room, this h as made the service a lot better for the people who have beco me less mobile and in some cases this has allowed people to re main in the home, when they otherwise may not have been able to do so.
	The service is currently working on making the garden more ac cessible for the people who have recently become less mobile and this will include a new path to access more of the garden.
